RELEVANT COURSEWORK:
Spinny Notes: Challenge - Create a node application with MVC architecture that used at least one API and had full CRUD implementation. Created a notes application where users could create their own custom notebooks as well as custom notes.
Baldwin's Books: Challenge - Create a fully functioning Laravel e-commerce site on a team of 2 other developers. Gave me vast experience working in the MEAN stack, oauth, routing, and the stripe payment API.
Dots: Challenge – create an interactive game with full MVC architecture using only vanilla Javascript. This was a fun project that allowed me the opportunity to fine-tune my Javascript skills without being able to fall back on any kind of framework or external tool.
Secret Show: The Secret Show website was my first experience working with a real client. The Secret Show was a student film project aiming to create a TV show pilot that is going to be pitched to Adult Swim. The website takes advantage of Angular and Firebase to keep up with user input.
